MONMOUTH PARK RACE TRACE, N. J., July -Famous old Monmouth Park begins anther year of its successful career in racing o-day. The crowd, as usual, was large-in fact it was so great that long before the racing began every available seat in the stand was oc-

The old-timers, who have been here before, nany a time, knew what the outlook would be; o a large number of them started for the track early as 9 o'clock.

It seems that Monmouth Park is the centre or what turfmen call good racing, as it's genast and West meet first to test their respective seed and staying qualities.

While the crowd of betting men and sightcers were wandering around the track and in and out of the paddock, about 1.30 o'clock, the neual Fourth of July rain came. It fairly poured bucketsful, and there was a great scramble for shelter.

Up to this time the track was beginning to drout somewhat, but the storm put an end to all hopes of a good track, and left it fetlock deep in mind, and caused plenty of horses to be in mid, and caused plenty of horses to be cratchelt.

The betting ring presented a funny sight, and t was laughable to see the regulars lay their beta own as though the race was all over, and then a look at the countrymen hesitate before betting their twos and fives.

Nixty-one bookles went on and will pay $125 a ay for the privilege.

Oh. Gear! how it rained while the horses see at the post for the first race.

Art. Cassatt won this race last year with Eurus,
Mr. Belmont's geding. Raceland, with Garrison up, and Mr. Cassatt's rogue Eurus, ridden sy Hayward, were the only horses to face the starter for the Ocean Stakes. Raceland was a
